

Glyndon Daily Empire.

DAVID CLARK, EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.

Thursday Evening, April 14, 1859.

42 Reading Matter on Every Page.

For Local, Telegraph, and other matters of interest and information, see First and Fourth Pages.

The Washington Union.

Geo. Bowman, a veteran Democratic editor of Pennsylvania, has purchased, of Mr. Cornelius Wendell, the Washington Union establishment, in the City of Washington, and will hereafter issue the paper under the name of "The Constitution."

Mr. Wendell, in announcing his retirement from the Union, says he was only the publisher of the paper, it having been edited by two gentlemen who retired when his ownership ceased. He also states that the paper was published as a sacrifice. This sounds strange to western readers, who see the vast amount of Government patronage the paper obtains, but who know little about the vast expense to which the publisher is subjected.

Ten thousand dollars per year to two editors is no trifle; and the thousand other advances to the purse of the publisher, known to but few, completes the swallowing of the profits of the concern, and leaves a heavy balance against his exchequer. This expense was not, probably, the fault of Mr. Wendell; it should possibly be laid to the custom "in such cases made and provided;" —a very bad custom, and ruinous, certainly. It is to be hoped that it will hereafter be abandoned by the conductors of the "Central National Democratic Organ." They should yield to no necessity which will deplete their coffers; should it be insisted upon, they can resign.

The editorial department of the Union under the rule of Mr. Wendell—well, we would rather say nothing about that now, only that it proved as ruinous to Democratic interests as did the pecuniary speculation to the proprietor. General Bowman is reported to be a sound democrat, and an able penman. We hope he will profit by the experience of his predecessors, and make the new paper, "The Constitution," what the great Central Organ should be. We have one consolation in any event: he cannot well make matters worse than he found them.

The Opposition North and South.

The Madison (Ind.) Courier, a bold and outspoken Republican paper, thus describes the summer in which it would have the opportunity to the Democracy conduct the Presidential election in 1860. It says:

"We hold that each section of the National Opposition must be permitted to conduct its canvass in its own way. In the South they must advocate and argue for secession; in the North, against it; and, in the result, under Providence, to Con-

In that way the Democracy are to be overthrown. Who will not admire and commend the honesty of a party whose principles accommodate themselves so well to different latitudes?"

PAUL MORPHY.—Mr. Morphy has just completed his match with Mr. Mongredien, the President of the London Club. The score stood: Morphy, 7; Mongredien, 0, drawn, 1.

The American champion was at the last accounts engaged in a curious chess melee: one hundred players of the French capital had subscribed to give him a dinner before his departure from the city. They had been divided into sections of twenty by lot, and each section was to ascertain by actual trial if they could beat him. A judicious thinking out is one of the very things they need; and this can be effected in the set of weeding, without consuming any additional time. If your strawberries are planted in rows, you can work them with spade and hoe; if not, you must put your strawberry fork in among them—and the sooner it is done, the better.

Remember that the strawberry requires good preparation of the ground, and good culture. If these can not be bestowed upon it, it had better be left alone.—Louisville Courier.

LATE NEWS FROM EUROPE.—The City of Baltimore has arrived, bringing four days later news from Europe. The question of peace or war is still in doubt, but the prospects of peace are not as bright as they were when the last steamer sailed. France and Austria have assumed such an attitude toward each other, and their pretensions are so antagonistic that it is difficult to see how peace can be preserved, unless one or the other party recedes. The question of Parliament reform will probably make another change in the English Government. The Tory Ministry will go out and a Liberal Ministry come in. We say "Liberal," although in fact, the English Whigs are no better than the English Tories on this question.

A SHARP TRANSACTION.—We learn from the Pittsburgh Chronicle that the Allegheny Bank was swindled out of $2,000 by a very ingenious connoisseur. It was as follows: One C. N. Williams makes his appearance in the village of New Philadelphia, Ohio, where he proposes to go into partnership with Mr. Hull, merchant of that place. His proposition is accepted, but Mr. H. is informed that Mr. W. has two drafts for $2,000 each which he must get cashed. Mr. Hull being about to visit Pittsburg invites his new partner to accompany him and get the draft cashed in that city. Mr. Williams goes willingly, through the agency of Mr. H., to Pittsburg, gets a draft for $2,000 cashed, and has not been heard from since.

At Havana, at last accounts, says the Journal of Commerce, an order for exacting stamp tax on account books, promulgated by the Governor General, was exciting a strong feeling of dissatisfaction. By this order, every leaf of every blank book for business purposes must be stamped; otherwise, no claim of indebtedness, based upon account is collectable. For each of the last leaves $8 are exacted; and for every other leaf $2.

Dr. William Henry King, a physician in high standing, is now on trial at the Coburg, (Canada) assizes, for the murder of his wife by poison. He had been married four years, but did not live very happily with his wife. She was sick for several weeks, and the evidence proposes to show that during that time he was murdering her by administering arsenic.

CHAS. E. CLARKE, REAL ESTATE GENERAL AGENT.

WILL buy and sell on Commission Real Estate in and about the City of Dayton, negotiate collections, etc., etc.

Office with T. J. S. Smith, Esq.

Clerks' Building, Third-story.

MERCHANTS'
Insurance Company,
OF HARTFORD, CONN.

Capital, $200,000.
DIRECTORS.

Mark Howard,

W. Woodruff, (President), W. Beach & Co.

J. Roberts, (of Kenney, Roberts & O'Dowd)

Jay R. Phelps, (See's Cutt, Life Ins. Co.)

John C. Parker, (See's Cutt, Life Ins. Co.)

James P. Foster, (First Merch. Assn. Bank)

Sidney A. White, (of Spenser, White & Co.)

Charles T. Hulsey, (First Charter Oak Bank)

Eliz. H. Owen, (of Day, Owen & Co.)

Homer Blanchard, (of H. Blanchard & Co.)

John H. Hubbard, (See's Cutt, Life Ins. Co.)

William L. Collier, (of Collier, Brothers & Co.)

W. H. D. Calender, (of State St. Bank)

MARK HOWARD, Pres't.

App'ts received by C. E. CLARKE, Agent.

Third street, Dayton, Ohio.

Would refer to C. E. CLARKE, Agent.

No. B. Darst, Esq., of Darst & Herkholz.

John Lytle, Esq., (of Perrine, Lytle & Shaw)

and other merchants, who are acquainted with the business men of Hartford.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Baton Rouge Advertiser hears complaints among the planters, of great damage to their seed cane by the wet weather during the winter. The eyes have rotted badly in the stubble, as well as plant cane. If the accounts are as bad as represented, it thinks we may look out for a very short crop this year, as it has heard planters put down half a crop as the highest figure that can possibly be reached.

A PLEASANT RESIDENCE.—The Dublin correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince filled the office of Lord Lieutenant.

THE NEXT CAKE CRAP.—The Dublin

correspondent of the Liverpool Journal says that Queen Victoria is in favor of making the Prince of Wales her representative in Ireland, and that it is highly probable his Royal Highness will be the Viceregy before the close of 1860. It is upwards of four centuries since a royal Prince